Nipponese To Try For Accord With The United States

Special Envoy Sahiro Kuru Off For Talks

TOKYO, Nov. 5.—(P)—The Japanese government announced today that it was sending Saburo Kuru, former ambassador to Germany, to Washington by Transpacific Clipper in an effort to reach an accord with the United States "in view of the very serious situation prevailing."

Arrangements for Kuru's transpacific flight were made in radio-telephone talks last night between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Secretary Hull, resulting in a two-day delay of a clipper's departure from Hongkong to enable Kuru to catch it, a government spokesman said.

The special envoy already is en route, having left Tokyo by plane yesterday.

The government spokesman said Kuru's mission was to facilitate a United States-Japanese understanding through the talks which have been in progress in Washington since late August.

Domei, news agency with close official connections, said Kuru would second the efforts of Ambassador Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura to "explain the Japanese situation to United States leaders, including President Roosevelt."

Nevertheless the departure of the envoy, whose title is special adviser to Ambassador Nomura, coincided with publication in the Japan Times and Advertiser, foreign office organ, of a seven-point program which it said the United States must accept if an accord is to be reached.

In effect this called on America to withdraw her influence from the Orient, recognize Japan's military, economic and diplomatic conquests of the past ten years and approve her "new order" in greater East Asia.

The same paper returned to the attack with an editorial in its afternoon edition, urging the United States to sacrifice the Chungking government of China to insure peace and to compose her differences with Japan before turning her full attention to her crisis with Germany.

This is within America's reach, the paper said, "because she is not as irrevocably committed to support of Chungking as to fortifying Britain."

"To permit the downfall of Chungking would not greatly impair the position of the United States," it said, adding that Britain desires peace in the Pacific and safety of her Far Eastern ocean lanes.

Signed Axis Pact
Kuru is famous as the diplomat who signed for Japan the three-power axis alliance at Berlin September 27, 1940, when he was ambassador to Germany.

(However, Kuru is not numbered among the most ardent proponents of the axis pact. He has served long in English-speaking and French-speaking countries, having been ambassador to Belgium before going to Berlin. He married an American woman.)

His mission represents a third stage in recent Japanese efforts to reach an accord with the United States and prevent the deepening Pacific crisis—intensified from Japan's viewpoint by the economic and military measures taken in the Pacific area by the United States and Britain—from producing a clash.

The first stage opened with Premier Prince Fumimaro Kono's still unpublished letter to

Story Tells Of Duke Coming To Sedalia

A story of a tour of the United States, made by the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, in 1872, carried on the editorial page of the Kansas City Star Tuesday morning, told how the duke gave Kansas City "the run-around," refused to stop in that city but did come to Sedalia and was met here by James S. Rollins and the Hon. H. J. Latshaw, of Jackson county, who accompanied him to Jefferson City.

La Guardia For Third Time Is To Be Mayor

First To Serve As Mayor Three Consecutive Terms

By Robert N. Sturdevant
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(P)—Fiorello H. La Guardia, whose ability to drive himself like a human dynamo has made him one of President Roosevelt's ace defense men, has been chosen to run the nation's largest city for four more years—the first man ever to hold the job three times in a row.

The sharp tongued little man in the black sombrero, probably the nation's leading exponent of the theory that municipal government is a science, outdistanced by a margin of 133,841 votes the opposition of Brooklyn district attorney, William F. O'Dwyer, candidate of the city's once potent democratic organizations, in yesterday's mayoralty election.

The complete vote of more than 2,000,000 New Yorkers was La Guardia 1,186,394; O'Dwyer 1,052,553, and George W. Hartmann, Socialist candidate, 21,402.

With the four-square support of the Republican, American Labor, Fusion and United City parties, La Guardia administered his third sound licking to Tammany hall and allied political organizations in the face of a combination of state and national democratic leaders seldom equalled in the city's political history.

Only President Roosevelt, whose national director of civilian defense La Guardia is, in the democratic column stood steadfastly in support of the rotund and outspoken mayor.

Fought For O'Dwyer
Governor Herbert H. Lehman, National Democratic, Chairman Edward J. Flynn, State Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and the city democratic chiefs all fought vigorously for O'Dwyer, an Irish immigrant who once studied for the priesthood, but who earned his political spurs by smashing a ring of Brooklyn killers.

For the first time since he broke the back of machine politics in 1933, La Guardia failed to sweep all of the city's five boroughs. He lost Queens, where paradoxically the sentiment in national elections usually is Republican, and the borough of Richmond, which is State Island.

But in populous Brooklyn, where O'Dwyer lives, in Manhattan where Tammany leader Christopher

Vote Is Neared On Revision Of Neutrality Act

Johnson Argues Approval Would Surely Mean War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Senator Downey (D-Calif.) told the senate today he had been "very much surprised" to learn that 75 to 80 per cent of the people in California favored neutrality act revision, and his Republican colleague, Senator Hiram Johnson immediately disputed him.

"Take it from me," Johnson shouted in debate, "I am in touch with the state of California."

Johnson argued that to revise the act to permit the arming of ships and their travel to belligerent ports would surely mean war. He added:

"Take your people into war if you want to, but remember when the casualty lists come rolling in California, no less than any other state, was against war."

Downey, who previously had been associated with the senate's so-called "non-intervention" bloc, told his colleagues that he had talked with a representative cross section of California citizens in arriving at his percentages.

The Downey-Johnson exchange came shortly after senate leaders reported that President Roosevelt voiced the view at a White House conference that congress should enact pending legislation without tacking on amendments designed to curtail defense strikes.

Says It Means War

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) another opponent of administration foreign policy, told the senate that enactment of the neutrality revision measure "means war—soon."

"Let us say to each senator," he continued, "Vote to repeal the neutrality act and you will be called upon to vote for war. Vote to destroy the neutrality act and you vote by indirection to destroy constitutional democracy."

The Montana suggested that instead of conveying British ships and sending American merchant vessels into the war zones the country might transfer warships to the British. That, he said, "would be a small price to pay if by it we could avoid war."

Wheeler declared some labor and farm leaders supported the administration's foreign policy because the administration had "practically Tammanyized the

Burglary At A Grocery Store

A series of grocery store robberies appears to be in the "making" with one attempt to rob one store being made and another being entered Tuesday night and early this morning. Only a vague description was obtained of the party endeavoring to get into the one store while at the second the thief was not seen.

The prowler appeared at the Fender Cottage Grocery, 420 East Tenth street, about 11:05 o'clock Tuesday night. The man was tearing away a screen when scared away when Mr. Fender called to him. An investigation was conducted by the police and the description was obtained at that time.

Sometime between 3:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock this morning a thief successfully gained entrance to the Sullivan grocery at Sixteenth street and Brown avenue. Entrance was gained by prying open a back door.

Missing was $5 in pennies, a side of bacon, two dozen cans of sardines, two pounds of cheese, a twenty-four pound sack of flour, ten cans of coffee, one dozen cans of milk, and some cigars.

Start Plans For Christmas Party

The Round Table Council of the Chamber of Commerce, meeting in regular session Tuesday night, voted to again sponsor a Christmas stocking party, held annually for the under-privileged children of the city.

The details of the party will be worked out by a special committee, to be appointed by Charles M. Van Dyne, president of the Round Table. This committee will work with the secretary of the Social Security Commission, and the leaders of other welfare organizations of the city.

Members of the council were interested in a request made by Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, representing the Sedalia Garden club, for a garbage disposal plant for Sedalia. It was decided to investigate workable plans in other cities, decide on one for Sedalia, and present it to the city council.

Board Favors Hike In Wages

Fact Finding Body Recommends It To Rail Employees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—A presidential emergency board recommended today temporary wage increases for the nation's 1,150,000 railroad workers, including a 7½ per cent raise for the 350,000 in the five operating brotherhoods, and a 9-cents-an-hour, or 13½ per cent average increase, for the 800,000 non-operating employees in the 14 other brotherhoods.

The board, which reported in person to President Roosevelt, also recommended a week's vacation with pay, effective January 1, next, for the year 1942 and each year thereafter to employees of the non-operating brotherhoods.

Employees of the Railway Express Agency also were recommended for a wage increase of 7½ cents per hour.

Would Be Temporary

All wage increases recommended were proposed as "temporary" additions to wages, effective as of September 1, 1941, and to terminate automatically on December 31, 1942, unless the parties extend the arrangement by agreement.

"This board," its lengthy report said, "recommends that on or about December 31, 1942, the wage structure in the railroad industry should be examined in light of the existing economic conditions of the railroad industry and of the country."

Managements and brotherhoods have 30 days to act on recommendations.

Hyde Park Elects All Democrats

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(P)—President Roosevelt is proud of his party mates in his little home town; voters yesterday elected a full slate of Democratic officers for the first time in 70 years.

The sweep included overthrow of three Republican incumbents. Town Clerk George Bridges, who bowed to Gladys Brower by 71 votes; Justice of the Peace Alfred E. Paul, who lost to William H. Horn by six, and Walter Talman, chairman of the board of assessors, 66-vote loser to J. Harry Keller.

The president congratulated a delegation of celebrating Democrats last night at his estate.

States Arming Reduce Losses

Knox Says 'Subs' Have No Love For Ships With Guns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Arming of merchant ships was described by Secretary today as one means of helping reduce American ship losses due to submarine attacks in the battle of the Atlantic.

At a press conference, the secretary was asked whether the employment of tactics new in submarine warfare as compared with World War methods meant that the arming of merchantmen would not be so effective as in 1917-18.

Emphatically, Knox replied that placing guns on such vessels would help reduce losses.

"Submarines have no love for ships with guns on their decks," Knox declared. He said that new U-boat tactics revolved chiefly around hunting in packs.

He also noted that subs "are hunting on the surface at night," and he declared that the arming of merchant vessels would make such raiding operations much more difficult than when they were carried out against unarmed convoys protected only by warship escorts.

The secretary declined comment on recent losses of American naval ships in a small area of the North Atlantic west of Iceland. He said that all the information the navy had received on the sinking of the Reuben James had been given out and that a belated report was made on the torpedoing of the tanker Salinas only in order to permit that crippled vessel to reach safety.

Orders Unchanged

Asked whether these developments, the Reuben James and Salinas encounters, particularly, had in any way modified the situation in the Atlantic, Knox said that "the orders have not been changed and work is going on as before."

Orders given by President Roosevelt in mid-September were to shoot hostile ships on sight.

Knox characterized as speculation an article in the U. S. Naval Institute publication saying that 140 submarines already have been sunk in the war. Knox said that all could be said with certainty was that the British have said that they have sunk "a very considerable number of submarines."

Asked whether submarines of today were better able to withstand depth bomb attacks than those of the World War period, Knox replied, "I think there has been a general understanding that there has been an improvement in the construction of subs in the last 25 years. I know ours have been improved."

Painting Car To Advertise Fair
The management of the Missouri State Fair is having a car painted for advertising purposes, and beginning Thursday it will make tours of different parts of Missouri. The car will be colorful, carrying the State Fair advertisement, and pictures of the 1941 state fair will be shown three times a day, while on tour. This will be continued throughout the year until the opening of the 1942 exposition.

Ernest Baker, secretary, states that he is daily receiving new trophies to be offered in the different departments, particularly in the junior activities.

'Subs' Sighted Off Coast Of Newfoundland

Seawar In The Waters Of Iceland Being Intensified

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—(P)—Navy Minister Angus MacDonald said today that Nazi submarines are operating "off the coast of Newfoundland—within sight of the shore."

The navy minister's statement was made when reporters asked him to give further details of his report to the house of commons last night that Canadian ships have sunk more than one German U-boat.

"You can say there are submarines right off the coast of Newfoundland—that they are actually within sight of the shore," he said.

"Naturally we are attacking them wherever we can find them. So are the patrol planes of the air force coastal command. We usually find them by sound and attack by depth charge. They (the planes) sight them and attack by bombs. But we are working very closely together."

Rear Admiral Percy Nelles, the naval chief of staff, was present and gave his approval of the statement.

"The Germans certainly know where they are," he said.

'Heads For Certain Death'

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—(P)—German spokesmen, commenting on the attack on the United States naval tanker Salinas near Iceland, declared today "Now as always, we can only say whoever starts for England heads for certain death."

Intensify Seawar

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Germany intends to make the waters west of Iceland a major theatre in the battle of the Atlantic, informed sources concluded today, and battle for a decision there with wolf-pack U-boat tactics.

The record of the past two months, as far as American interests are concerned, all points in that direction, they said, and the intensification of the seawar in recent weeks may well herald even greater Nazi efforts as turbulent wintry seas give submarines their safest hunting.

Until the Atlantic fleet began patrolling the sea lanes with shoot-on-sight orders, the gravest un-

Russians Fight Delaying Action In The Crimea

Special News Service of The Democrat
(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt Mackenzie, is written today by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

The battle of the Crimea is forming itself into a grimly monotonous repetition of the lessons of the Peloponnesus and Crete.

These lessons are the vulnerability of even the best natural defenses of island or peninsula and the impotence of seapower operating in restricted waters—against the applied might of overwhelming air power.

In another day the 4-mile wide Perekop isthmus which connects Crimea with the Russian mainland would have been a death trap for an invader from the north, if properly defended. In this war the Germans negotiated it by combining air-borne shock troops, dive bombers, and ground assault units to fast-striking mechanical

Welders To Be Asked To Go Back To Jobs

Executive Session By Mediation Board On Mines Dispute

By The Associated Press
A committee representing welders on strike from west coast shipyards agreed today to ask the strikers to return to work immediately.

A walkout of other welders whose strike was spreading out through the aircraft industry was not affected by the planned action.

Announcement of the decision of the shipyard welders committee representing the United Welders, Cutters and Helpers of America (Independent)—was made by Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of Production Management.

The number involved in this strike, started three weeks ago, was variously estimated by the union at 20,000 and by the OPM labor division at 5,000. Ten thousand other workers had been made idle by the strike.

The navy announced, meanwhile, that a union jurisdictional dispute had forced a shutdown of work on gates at a $3,000,000 graving dock at its San Diego destroyer base.

In the shipyards welders dispute, Hillman said that after all-night negotiations Karl V. Norris, union president, had been designated to call off the strike by long distance telephone.

As soon as the men returned to work, the OPM labor chief added, his office would call a conference of the welders, OPM labor officials and representatives of other labor organizations interested in the dispute, with the view to a permanent settlement.

The independent is demanding a charter from the American Federation of Labor recognizing it as a

U. S. Engineers Arrive At Persian Gulf Port

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(P)—A German radio broadcast said today United States engineers and other specialists had arrived at Basra, Persian gulf port of Iraq, on a mission to improve service on the Trans-Iranian Railway.

that the Soviet warships hovering off the coast have been forced to withdraw after firing a few shells at German positions already established on the coast. This can be understood if one remembers the grievous damage done to the British Mediterranean fleet by dive bombers off the coasts of Crete.

Meanwhile the German armies have trisected the Russian defenders in the south Crimea, German accounts assert. They have skirted the Yaila mountains on the east to reach the coast at Feodosia and to isolate Kerch, on the narrow strait which separates the Crimea from the Caucasus.

They have crossed the mountains between Feodosia and Sevastopol, Russian naval base at the southern corner of the Crimea. The main Russian force probably is falling back at the western end of the Yailas onto Sevastopol and Balaklava, where the light brigade once charged and the Russian cannon "volleyed and thundered."

The Russians have not disguised the fact that the Crimean situation is grave, perhaps hopeless. Thus although the defenders can be counted on to fight a hard delaying action and while strong bands may hold out for a long time in the prehistoric caverns of the Yailas, the naval port of Sevastopol has lost its value and probably will, in due course, be evacuated. The Russian fleet then will operate from Novorossisk and Batum, on the east coast of the Black sea.

German accounts, so far unchallenged by the Russians, indicate

Soviet Fliers Help Recapture City of Kalinin

By The Associated Press
Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were reported to have stormed across the rugged Yaila mountains and reached the Black sea today, thus apparently splitting Russia's Crimean defense forces into three parts after a 100-mile advance in eight days.

The Berlin radio compared the Red armies' retreat with the British-French withdrawal from the bloody fields of Flanders to Dunkerque last year, declaring that roads were littered with smashed trucks and artillery while snow drifted over corpses heaped in the roadside ditches.

German troops were pictured as pursuing the Russians toward the Balaklava Heights, south of Sevastopol, where the British light brigade made its storied charge "into the valley of death" in the Crimean war of 1853-55.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said Nazi troops had planted their swastika battleflags on the peninsula's south coast between Sevastopol and Kerch.

German dispatches yesterday said that Kerch, at the eastern tip of the Crimea, had been isolated by axis forces which knifed across the neck of the pear-shaped peninsula and captured the coastal town of Feodosia.

The reported crossing of the Yaila mountains appeared as a serious blow to the Red armies' defense strategy. Soviet reports to London had said previously that Russian commanders made no attempt to stem the German sweep across the central Crimea after the break through the Perekop isthmus, gateway to the Black sea republic.

Instead, these reports said, the Russians merely executed rear-guard actions while moving their main forces to strong positions along the Yaila range to cover Sevastopol and Kerch.

Cheerful News From Reds
With the Crimean struggle evidently nearing its final stages, the Russians found more cheerful news on the central front before Moscow, where Gen. Gregory K. Zhukov's Red armies were reported to have recaptured the city of Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the U. S. S. R. capital.

Soviet front-line dispatches also declared that a German column which advanced five miles in the Moshkav, sector, 57 miles west of Moscow, had been thrown back after a four-hour battle of mechanized units.

Soviet warplanes supporting the Red offensive at Kalinin, the scene of some of the bloodiest fighting of the campaign, were credited officially with destroying eight German infantry companies (about 2,000 men) and more than 1,300 trucks.

On the Leningrad front, Hitler's high command said heavy German fire had smashed another Russian attempt to cross the Neva river, a few miles south of the old Czarist capital.

"Half of the 100 boats used were sunk and the rest compelled to turn back," the German communiqué said.

'Homey' Bottle Buyer Turns Out Liquor Agent

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 5.—(P)—E. L. Carter, a homey sort of fellow in a battered old truck, has coked his bottle-buying enterprise and there is great gloom among a certain segment of Richmond business men.

For those who sold him bottles and jars his retirement from the field left a certain bitterness — no longer would his friendly tread sound on their doorsteps as he went his rounds buying their used containers — his cheery manner was but a memory.

Carter's was a business that was built on friendship and trust. Of necessity it was built that way because those from whom he bought bottles dealt in darksome ways, trafficking in whiskey—a monopoly to which the commonwealth of Virginia lays legal claim.

Occasionally, Carter would sell jars as well as buy—when his supply was heavy and when the half gallon size was readily procurable to meet the moonshiner's demand. But mostly he bought he bought the bottles and sometimes would even buy a drink or a pint "to refresh" him, as he said, as he went his rounds in the cool of the fall evenings.

Sometimes he had pigs in his truck but they won't be there any more. The truck won't be there either and E. L. Carter won't be so homey.

At least Carter didn't look so friendly and homey as he testified against some of the 150 persons arrested on charges of violating the state liquor laws, largely on the evidence Carter obtained when he made his "buys."

"Yes, Carter's one of our regular agents," explained state liquor control board investigator T. P. Duggan. "We brought him down here from the Charlottesville area last spring when the bootleggers began getting too frisky."

There were a number of persons from Tipton who attended the Missouri and Nebraska football game played over at Columbia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hotsetter and son Jimmie of St. Louis were week-end guests of Mrs. Hotsetter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Farris. Mrs. Farris is ill at her home. They were accompanied from St. Louis by Mrs. Hotsetter's cousin, Miss Sarah Hays, a school teacher. Miss Hays was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hays and Dr. Fred Frerking also a guest in the Hays home.

Ralph Brenton after serving nine months with the Special Weapon Cavalry troops at Camp Funston, Kas., has received an honorable discharge and is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Brenton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Alexander have received the announcement of the birth of a son born Wednesday, October 29th, to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ruffner of Sun Ray, Texas, the infant has been given the name of John Malcolm Ruffner, Jr. This is Mr. and Mrs. Alexander's second grandchild, in a period of five weeks. A son was born to their son, Edward Alexander recently in Texas.

The week of prayer and self denial was observed by the women of the Fortuna and Tipton Methodist churches, in a joint service. The first half was at the Fortuna church on Tuesday afternoon, and the second half, at the Tipton church on Wednesday. At each a fine program was given and a liberal collection was taken. Mrs. H. W. Michaelis was director of the services.

Mrs. Lloyd Carter and Mrs. Glenn Vaught, teachers of the primary departments of the Methodist church were hostesses to their classes in a delightful child's party in the church recreational room. Games were played and a lunch was served.

The Presbyterian Missionary Society was hostess to the Bunton society in an all day meeting October 25. At the home of Mrs. J. W. Jones programs were given out morning and afternoon. A book review was given featuring each session. The Tipton ladies served a delicious dinner.

Ralph Brenton, after serving nine months with the special weapon cavalry troops at Camp Funston, Kas., has received his honorable discharge and is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Brenton.

Flounders Over Flounder Answer

Although the number of hours of daylight during the shortest day of the year stumped her, Mrs. Everett Edwards, the former "Spookie" Fischer of Sedalia, quickly answered some queries on the National Broadcasting company's "Battle of Sexes" program Tuesday night.

Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Dick Jolly, also a former Sedalian, and Mrs. Glenn Christian and Mrs. Ralph Gray, both of Windsor, composed a quartette of "Missouri women" and opposed four male "city slickers" on the program, which originated in New York.

Mrs. Jolly readily named two capitals besides Missouri's named after United States presidents.

Mrs. Edwards missed the daylight question by only one hour, guessing eight. The correct answer is nine hours. The question "What is American fillet of sole?" also made her flounder, but she finally hazarded the incorrect "halibut."

Although the Missouri women were commended for their good tries, final winners were the men. Participants in the half hour contest were awarded gold watches.

To Choose Site For Memorial

The selection of a site for the $11,000.00 Memorial to be erected to the tribute of veterans of the 89th Division will feature the 16th annual reunion of that organization to be held at Kansas City, Saturday, November 8, Morton T. Jones, president of the Society announced today.

More than 1,000 persons from points throughout Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, South Dakota and Arizona, from which states the 89th Division was recruited in 1917, are expected to attend. 20,000 are on the present roster.

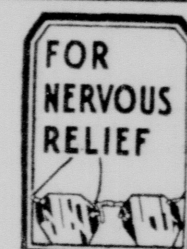

The Memorial Committee consisting of Major A. J. Watson, San Francisco; Brigadier General John S. H. Lee, Portland, Oregon; Major George L. Armstrong, Los Angeles; Morton T. Jones, Kansas City; and Charles S. Stevenson, Kansas City, will recommend a location on the Liberty Memorial mall or one down near the bottom of the north side. The committee has a sketch of the Memorial showing landscaping, which will be on exhibition at the reunion.

Major General Frank L. Winn, who commanded the 89th Division in the World War, upon his death last year left $1,000.00 to the trustees of the Society with the provision that they raise $10,000.00, which will make $11,000.00 for the Memorial.

It means more than big-scale sculpture. America is eager to show its respect for great character. Throughout our country, you'll find statues and other types of lasting tributes to great leaders who have made us a great nation... reminders of American ideals.

People respect character in products, too

When a product has the character people respect, they are quick to adopt it. The makers of Budweiser have always followed one standard—Budweiser must always be utterly distinctive in taste, pure, good and supreme in quality. That's why people everywhere have agreed that Budweiser is "something more than beer." Their demand has made it the biggest-selling beer in history and built the world's largest brewery.

enemy to break out on other parts of the (Leningrad) pocket were for the most part broken up in the course of preparation."

Crisis At Leningrad

German military commentators declared "daily repeated attempts by the Russians to break out" of Leningrad, which has been besieged for many weeks, indicated that the situation inside the great northern metropolis was becoming "more unbearable."

Nazi bombers again attacked Leningrad and Moscow during the night, the high command said, and pounded the automobile and aircraft manufacturing center of Gorki, 250 miles east of Moscow.

German dispatches from the Crimea pictured the Russians as retreating in headlong flight but acknowledged that the Soviet Black sea fleet, hovering off the coast, was a threat to Nazi columns moving toward Sevastopol and Kerch.

Two Russian warships have already exchanged fire with heavy German batteries on the Crimea but were forced to break off the engagement, the Nazis asserted.

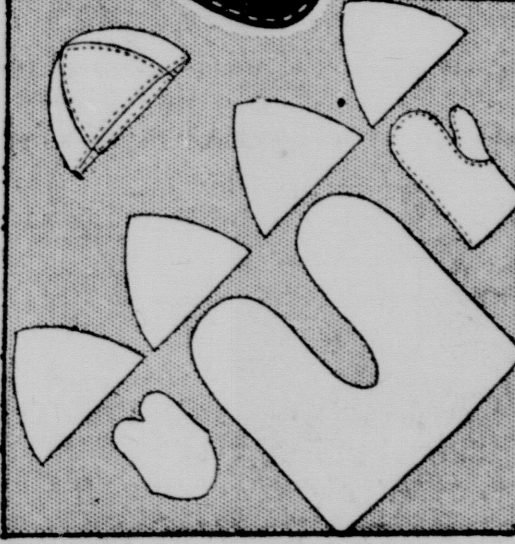

Striking to destroy Soviet naval strength and block any attempt by the Red Crimean armies to escape by sea, Nazi dive-bombers were reported to have sunk two Russian transports and damaged five merchantmen and a small cruiser in attacks on the harbors of Sevastopol, Yalta and Kerch.

Elsewhere on the southern front, Stefani, the official Italian news agency, reported that Fascist troops were advancing into the Donets river basin but acknowledged their progress was being hampered by furious Soviet attacks.

'Subs' Sighted Off Coast Of Newfoundland

deserve threat to Britain's life-line was concededly in the immediate approaches to her ports, whose proximity to U-boats bases on the continent facilitated pack operations.

Reports on recent sinkings, however, show that the packs are riding farther westward, particularly in the few hundred square miles of ocean that lie south and west of Iceland, the easternmost of American defense bastions.

It has been in that limited area that U-boats have sunk four American-owned ships of Panama-American registry and the destroyer Reuben James. In those waters the destroyer Kearny and the Navy oiler Salinas were damaged by torpedo attacks, and a submarine tried three times without success to send the destroyer Greer to the bottom.

The navy department officially acknowledged the heavy loss of life in the Reuben James sinking, announcing that all hope had been abandoned for the destroyer's missing—seven officers and 88 men. Counting two previously known dead, this made the official toll 97.

The navy took its heavy casualties stoically, and officers privately voiced the belief that the type of submarine warfare being waged "in the North Atlantic would continue to take a toll of life, and that there would be losses incident to patrol operations.

The tactics, experienced naval observers said, were nothing like those of World War days, when U-boats gave destroyers a wide berth and rarely risked attacking them except in desperate bids to escape destruction or in those cases when the destroyer was caught unaware.

Now, however, extremely sensitive sound detection devices enable a U-boat to aim its torpedoes while below the surface without exposing its periscope, experts pointed out.

Moreover, they noted, all the attacks on U. S. naval vessels, the Greer excepted, occurred at night when the submarines have the added protection of darkness. Incidentally, it was said, this might also indicate a healthy respect for the daytime efficiency of the Iceland-based air patrol.

And lastly, they said, there was the pack method of attack, so that a zig-zagging warship had to outwit not one but several U-boat commanders, losing torpedoes in quick succession and from different directions.

But despite all this, even official Nazi claims of cargo tonnage sunk dropped 33 1/2 per cent in October—the first full month that the U. S. navy did convoy duty. The experts think that is eloquent.

Welders To Be Asked To Go Back To Jobs

separate union. Independent members contend that they have to pay dues to several AFL unions in order to work.

Into Executive Session
At Washington the defense mediation board was called into executive session to formulate its decision on the troublesome issue of a union shop for steel companies' captive soft coal mines. Chairman William H. Davis said the board's recommendation for settling the dispute would be prepared before the weekend.

A naval spokesman at San Diego said that AFL boilermakers and Iron Workers could not agree on which should install the gates at the graving dock, and that the navy department at Washington would be asked to decide which union should have the work.

Jimme Goss, president of the independent United Aircraft Welders, declared that 75 per cent of the overnight shift welders had walked out at the Vega and Lockheed plane factories in Burbank. The management, on the other hand, said that only 35 of the 118 welders on that shift week off the job. The two affiliated companies were 410 welders in all, and have contracts for more than $645,000,000 worth of military planes for the United States and British governments.

The welders strike spread today to the Consolidated Aircraft plant at San Diego, where nearly $750,000,000 worth of bombers are on order.

An unannounced number of the welders failed to report for work on the day shift of the Consolidated plant, which employs about 250. The AFL machinists union, collective bargaining agent for the plant, claims a membership of 24,000 of the plant's 28,000 workers.

Conscription Of Women Considered

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(P)—The Evening Star said today that women would be included in future military and industrial conscription now being considered by the British government.

Informed sources declined to comment on the report but had previously said women would never be called into the fighting services.

British women now are registered for war work but their service in army, navy and airforce auxiliaries is voluntary.

La Guardia For Third Time Is To Be Mayor

topher D. Sullivan holds sway over organization Democrats, and in the Bronx, Flynn's own borough, La Guardia drew the commanding pluralities which elected him.

Despite the spirited campaign, marked by frequent harsh words, the election was quiet and orderly.

La Guardia was in bed when his victory became certain; he had retired shortly after the polls closed and planned to be back at his $25,000-a-year job in the morning. His new term begins next January.

O'Dwyer stayed late at his headquarters and at midnight conceded defeat in a telegram of congratulations to La Guardia, who once during the campaign compared his adversary's head to that of a cabbage.

One of La Guardia's first congratulatory messages came via shortwave from the British Broadcasting Corporation. It was read by the chairman of the London county council and said in part: "We in London have a deep sense of gratitude for the people of New York for help and encouragement shown to us in the hour of trial and adversity in the struggle against the embattled forces of evil."

As between La Guardia and O'Dwyer there was no particular issue of international import.

The mayor's plurality was the smallest of any of his three campaigns. In 1937 he defeated Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Democrat, by 453,874 votes and in 1933 his plurality over John P. O'Brien, Democrat was 281,850.

Republicans gave La Guardia his strongest support, casting 668,763 of the total vote. The American Labor party, in which the mayor is enrolled, added considerable weight with 434,297 votes. The Fusionist vote was 63,109; United City 20,225.

Swept into office with the mayor were the principal incumbent aides in La Guardia's crusade for good municipal government—Newbold Morris, president of the city council, and Joseph D. McGoldrick, city comptroller.

Frank S. Hogan, a Democrat unopposed for New York county district attorney, was elected to succeed Thomas E. Dewey, who had declined to run for the office again. Dewey supported La Guardia in the mayoralty race.

Elections Elsewhere

In elections elsewhere yesterday, Virginia Democrats rolled up a landslide majority for their gubernatorial nominee, former representative, Colgate W. Darden, of Norfolk, but Fairfax county, embracing George Washington's Mount Vernon home and burial place, provided an unexpected upset by electing a Republican, Col. R. R. Farr, to the state house of delegates.

Special elections were held in Mississippi and Pennsylvania to fill vacant seats in the house of representatives. Jamie L. Whitten, Charleston Democrat, was the apparent winner in the second Mississippi district, and Wilson D. Gillette, Republican, built up a lead over George O. Wagner, a Democrat, in the 15th Pennsylvania district.

Republican nominees for Pennsylvania supreme and superior court judgeships pulled away from their Democratic opponents on the basis of incomplete returns, and Scranton, Lancaster, Uniontown and Hazleton named Republican mayors. Democrat Cornelius D. Scully managed, however, to retain the mayorship of Pittsburgh.

Maurice J. Tobin won reelection as mayor of Boston, thwarting a comeback campaign by Jas. M. Curley. Both are registered Democrats.

Governor Charles Edison's attempt to wrest control of the New Jersey legislature from the Republicans failed, despite the governor's statewide stumping tour.

Dwight H. Green, Republican governor of Illinois, likewise met with no success in his support of his party's slate in 23 Chicago judgeship contests. Victory went to a Democratic sponsored coalition slate consisting of 15 Democratic and eight GOP candidates.

Balloting on some legislative candidates and on proposed constitutional changes aroused little interest in Kentucky, since Democratic control of the state legislature was not at stake.

Other election results:
Cleveland: Democrats broke an eight-year Republican hold on city hall by electing Frank J. Lausche as mayor.

Detroit: Incumbent Edward J. Jeffries defeated Joseph A. Gillis for mayor in non-partisan balloting.

Bridgeport, Conn.: Mayor Jasper McLevy, Socialist, won a fifth term.

Albany, N. Y.: Erastus Corning, II elected mayor, giving Democrats an extension of their hold on city affairs, continuous since 1922.

Akron, O.: Democrat George J. Harter, a blind member of the state legislature, unseated Republican Lee D. Schroy as mayor.

President Roosevelt late in August. The second was represented by the return to Washington last month of Kaname Wakasugi, Japanese minister, who was understood to have carried new instructions.

(Prince Fumimaro Konoye, while premier, sent a letter to President Roosevelt last August which led to protracted talks. Washington sources at the time said the message opened the way for negotiations which might settle questions of peace or war in the Pacific.

(The talks languished and Konoye went out of office. Since then the Japanese press has persisted in a campaign forecasting failure of the negotiations and seeking to lay the responsibility on Washington's doorstep.)

Policy Declaration

A bold declaration of Japanese policy which observers said might well have the approval of the foreign office was published meanwhile by the Japan Times and Advertiser, together with an ominous statement that if the United States failed to "take the right turn in the road she can face the alternatives."

The paper, which is controlled by the foreign office, listed a sweeping seven-point program which it declared the United States should "make effective on her own initiative" to ease the critical situation in the Pacific.

The steps which the Times and Advertiser said should be taken to effect an rapprochement with Japan were:

"1—Stop all military and economic aid to China by all foreign states and cease all propaganda or military missions to keep her at war with Japan. America could advise Chungking to make peace with Japan.

"2—Leave China completely free to deal with Japan, and thereby end hostilities and establish economic cooperation.

"3—Stop encirclement of Japan by military, naval and air bases and by erection of economic barriers. Proceed no further with military and naval movements in the western Pacific under pretext of defense.

"4—Acknowledge Japan's co-prosperity sphere, her leadership in the western Pacific and in so doing leave Manchukuo, China, Indo-China, Thailand (the Netherlands East) Indies and other states and protectorates to establish their own political and economic relations with Japan without interference of any kind.

"5—Recognize Manchukuo.

"6—Stop at once unconditionally freezing of Japan's assets and China's assets in America, Britain, the Indies and wherever that provocative measure is applied.

"7—Restore trade treaties, abolish all restrictions on shipping and commerce, undo everything wrongfully done in the name of peace but with the design for war, whether economic or military."

Cooperation In Flight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Secretary of State Hull said today the state department had cooperated with Japan in facilitating arrangements for the trans-Pacific flight of Saburo Kurosu, special emissary en route to Washington to assist Japanese Ambassador Nomura in efforts to reach an understanding with the United States.

Hull explained at his press conference that such collaboration was merely in the nature of courtesies usually extended to a foreign emissary travelling to this country. He said he knew of no new proposals for a Far-Eastern settlement being brought here by Kurosu. He declared that there was really nothing new which the state department could report on that situation at this time.

The state department was notified that Kurosu was coming here to cooperate with Nomura in exploratory conversations, Hull said, adding that this government had nothing to do with the mission, except to extend the usual courtesies of travel.

Pressed for a statement on the seven-point "must" program of conciliatory actions expected of the United States, which was published in Tokyo by the Japan Times-Advertiser, Hull said he had no comment to offer. He observed that so much of this nature has appeared in Japanese and American newspapers that he could not hope to keep up with all of the proposals.

mentations of the board, created by President Roosevelt on September 10 to consider workers demands. Meanwhile the workers cannot strike because they are prohibited from doing so by the Railway Mediation Act.

The five operating brotherhoods had demanded a 30 per cent wage increase with a minimum raise of $1.80 a day. The non-operating brotherhoods had asked an increase of 30 cents an hour with a wage minimum of 70 cents an hour, and two weeks vacation with pay.

Say Demands Be Costly

The railroads, maintained that these demands would have cost them about $900,000,000 a year.

The emergency board reported that its over-all wage increases, including vacation cost, would be about 12 1/2 per cent of present railroad labor costs.

Further, the board recommended that a permanent basic minimum wage of 40 cents an hour be established for employees of short line railroads and a permanent basic minimum wage of 45 cents an hour be established for all other railroad employees, including the Railway Express Agency.

"Except for the employees of the short lines," the board reported, "these recommendations involve no further monetary addition since the wage increases as recommended will bring railroad workers in their respective classes up to or about the suggested basic minimum wage rates."

Disputes between the carriers and employees in the 14 non-operating brotherhoods over rules of employment should be resubmitted for further consideration under the procedure of the Railway Labor Act, the board said.

"This board," it reported, "assumes that whatever changes may be made in the application of present rules, the basic guarantees to railroad labor as to seniority and craft and class lines will be preserved."

Stressing the temporary nature of the wage increases, the board said:

"In view of the uncertainties confronting the economy of this country for the duration of the existing emergency, all increases in wages constitute a temporary addition to pay and not a change in basic wage rates, except for minimum rates hereinafter suggested for the railroads."

Among arguments given the board in behalf of the workers was one by Bert M. Jewell, a brotherhood spokesman who said other comparable industries had granted two or more raises in pay since the railroads last increased wages in 1937.

Jewell said railroad mechanics now receive 85 cents an hour compared with $1.25 paid men performing similar work in other industries.

Estimate On Cost

The board estimated that its recommended pay increases and the vacation recommendation would mean an increased cost of about $270,000,000 a year if applied to a payroll like that of 1941.

It said that its recommendations were made on the assumption that the railroads can secure needed relief from any resulting inadequate net revenues by obtaining permission to increase their transportation rates.

"Indeed," it continued, "our recommendations are made on the assumption, though not on the affirmative finding, that a large portion of the increased wage bill . . . will be made good to the carriers through increased rates."

If the total increased cost should be shifted entirely to shippers and passengers in the form of a rate and fare increase, the board said such an increase would average about 5 per cent.

Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University of Oregon law schools, was chairman of the board. Other members were Thomas R. Powell, Harvard law professor; James C. Bonbright, of Columbia university; Joseph H. Willits, director of Social Sciences of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Huston Thompson, Washington, D. C., attorney.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—The five members of President Roosevelt's fact finding board came to Washington from Chicago today to submit to the chief executive their recommendations for settling a threatened strike of railroad employees.

Chairman Wayne L. Morse said the members hoped to make their report today, but were awaiting word when the president could receive them.

The board was appointed under procedure outlined in the railway labor act after the national (railway) mediation board had failed to settle the controversy. The five big operating brotherhoods and 14 non-operating unions, speaking for 1,200,000 employees, have threatened to strike unless the roads meet their demands for increased wages. The board recently held extensive hearings on the issues in Chicago.

The operating unions are asking basic increases of thirty per cent while the non-operating groups are demanding raises from 30 to 34 cents an hour. The lowest paid of the operating workers receive $5.06 a day, and the present minima for non-operating employees are 35 cents for unskilled and 85 cents for highly skilled.

Neither the roads nor the unions are compelled by law to accept the board's recommendations,

Miss Dix Funeral

Funeral services for Miss Augusta B. Dix, who lived at 208 South Quincy avenue, were conducted at the Gillespie Funeral Home at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, with the Rev. A. W. Koken-doffer officiating.

Pallbearers were Charles L. Hanley, Dr. G. T. Lively, Finis Nicholas, H. O. Foraker, E. H. Weinrich and Tom Major. Mrs. H. O. Foraker was in charge of the music.

Burial was in Crown Hill cemetery.

Miss Dix died last Friday evening at Bothwell hospital. Immediate survivors include two brothers, E. V. Dix of the home, and A. R. Dix of Rockville, and one sister, Mrs. Viola I. Trueblood of Sedalia.

Funeral Of S. J. Tipton

Funeral services for Samuel J. Tipton, who was fatally injured last Monday night when struck by a taxicab on East Third street, were conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at the Houstonia cemetery. The Reverend H. U. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street M. E. church officiated at the graveside service.

Pallbearers were friends.

Interment was in the family lot in the Houstonia cemetery beside the grave of his wife, Mrs. Sarah Tipton, who herself was fatally injured on December 9, 1939 when struck by a motorcar on west Broadway.

Sharp Advances On Egg Market

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(P)—Sharp advances in all egg classifications, which sent average prices to the highest level for November since 1929, were recorded in the wholesale market today. Gains ranged from 1/2 to 2 cents a dozen.

Best eggs were up most with extra firsts at 37 1/2 cents a dozen and firsts at 35 cents. Both grades sold about 15 cents a dozen wholesale above the same time last year.

Traders on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange said seasonally declining receipts were a factor in the advance.

Another factor in the upsurge, traders said, was government buying for export and domestic relief purposes.

Petroleum products were used at a rate of 150,000,000 gallons a day in the United States during 1940.

Everette Henry Rucker

Mrs. Arthur G. Burton, 1208 East Ninth street, has received word of the death of her cousin, Everette Henry Rucker, well known in Sedalia, who passed away at his home in Pasadena, Calif., October 26. An account of his death and funeral, as well as his picture, appeared in the October issue of the Pasadena Post, and the article reads as follows:

"Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a. m. today in St. Andrew's Catholic church for Everette Henry Rucker, nationally-known poultryman, who lived at 611 North Marengo avenue. Burial will be at Calvary cemetery, Los Angeles.

"Mr. Rucker died Sunday at a local hospital.

"He held many responsible positions in the poultry industry, among which were director of the International Baby Chick Association, member of committee on live bird exhibit, World's Poultry Congress, London, England, in 1930; member of committee on poultry exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair.

Bred World-Record Hens

"The climax of his career came in 1930 when he was the breeder of the all-time world's egg record hens.

"During the World's Poultry Congress in Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Rucker were honored by an introduction to the two princes, one now the King of England and the other the Duke of Windsor.

"In 1930 he was seriously injured in an automobile accident and had been in failing health since then.

"He came to Pasadena in 1937 and here has been active in social and dramatic circles. He was a member of the play reading committee of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, a Knight of Columbus, a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Andrew's church and a former member of the Pasadena Elks Lodge.

Born In Missouri

"Mr. Rucker was born in Tip-ton, Mo., September 8, 1891. He received his bachelor and M. A. degrees from the University of Missouri at Columbia where he was a member of the Farmhouse and Alpha Zeta honorary fraternities.

"He married Harriett Evans August 28, 1916. After teaching at the University of Missouri, Massachusetts Agricultural College and at Iowa State College, he moved to Ottumwa, Ia., where he began his successful career as a poultry breeder.

"He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor of Des Moines, and Regina Rucker; three sons, Neville, Thomas and Edward Rucker, and by his mother."

Five Listed As Dead Are Reported Alive

Changes Just Before Destroyer Left Account For Mix-up

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—At least five of the seamen listed by the navy as lost in the sinking of the destroyer Reuben James were reported safe last night.

Officials explained that last-minute changes in the ship's roster might account for the discrepancies and indicated that the official list might be changed later when further information becomes available.

It was believed that the total number of enlisted men missing would stand at 88, however, since replacements probably were made for those transferred.

The navy department announced ed tonight that Peter Anderson, Summer, Wash., previously listed as missing, is now in Boston. A spokesman explained that his enlistment had expired.

Enlistment Expired

Frederick Arthur Bishop, third class torpedoman at Bayonne, N. J., was said by his mother to have written to his bride of two weeks from Norfolk, Va., last weekend remarking "How lucky I was to be off" the Reuben James, from which he was transferred after serving two years.

Vernon Everett Howell, fireman, of Thornville, O., turned up at the Philadelphia navy yard, where he was sent a few days ago.

Jack Austin Campbell, another fireman of Greensboro, N. C., wrote his step-mother a postcard from Norfolk Oct. 28, telling her that he was going to Philadelphia for duty on another ship.

Had Been Transferred

And Victor F. Krystynak, first class fireman of Follansbee, W. Va., wrote to a former school teacher from Boston Nov. 3 saying he had been transferred from the destroyer just the day before she left.

In addition, one of the sailors listed by the navy as having survived the torpedoing was found at Norfolk. Vincent Christopher Lane, third class radioman, explained that he had been transferred from the Reuben James recently after serving on her for 21 months.

Miss Potter who has the older pupils entertained in a vacant store building, while Miss Bidstrup entertained in a recreation room owned by George Blythe. The pupils and teachers were masked and they all enjoyed a wonderful evening. Many "spooky" games were played and prizes were awarded for best costumes. Refreshments of doughnuts, cocoa, candy bars and popcorn were served by both teachers.

Miss Hazel Potter entertained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Potter north of town with a Halloween party Tuesday evening of last week. Despite the heavy rain, many of the youngsters were present. The home was decorated in jack o' lanterns and spooky corners were arranged by means of autumn leaves and cornstalks. All present were masked and much fun and laughter was derived from the many games in which all took part. Refreshments were served at the conclusion.

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis didn't go to the conference with the president, at which the miner boss backed down on the "captive" mine strike, until he was assured that he was being "invited."

Lewis wanted it clearly understood that he was not asking to see Roosevelt.

Myron Taylor, astute former head of the United States Steel corporation, diplomatically smoothed the way for the "invitation."

Taylor and Lewis had conferred alone in the former's hotel suite for several hours, discussing the proposal, later agreed to by Lewis, to submit the closed shop issue to the National Defense Mediation Board.

During this meeting, Taylor, fresh from a mission to Rome, talked at length on the extreme gravity of the international situation, the great danger facing the United States and the crucial role it is playing in world affairs. He made it clear that now is not the time to rock the boat. Lewis, who fancies himself an authority on international affairs, was much impressed.

After lunch, the two men were joined, at the president's request, by Will Davis, chairman of the Mediation Board. Davis is another of Lewis' pet peevs, so his presence did not soothe the union leader's touchy sensibilities. Davis is the one man in the administration who has stood up to Lewis.

Finally, Taylor suggested that the three go to the White House for a personal talk with the president. It had been many months since Lewis and Roosevelt had been face to face.

To Taylor's proposal, Lewis replied, "I won't go without an invitation."

"All right," said Taylor quietly, "I'll see if we can get an invitation."

He picked up the 'phone, asked for the White House and was promptly connected with the president, to whom he said, "We have been talking over a plan, Mr. President, and think we ought to come and see you about it."

Roosevelt replied he would see them immediately. Taylor turned to Lewis and said, "Is that all right with you, Mr. Lewis?"

"If we are invited," was the answer, "it's all right with me."

At The White House
Lewis was very solemn when he entered the White House. The president greeted him pleasantly, and throughout the hour and 45-minute conference was at his most charming best.

Like Taylor, the president also talked at length about the seriousness of the international situation and the peril facing the country.

Lewis was the last to leave the president's office. As they shook hands, Roosevelt said "Glad you came in, John." Lewis replied, "Thank you, Mr. President." Lewis appeared greatly relieved when he emerged.

NOTE: The November 15 deadline Lewis later announced for the suspended strike is just two days before the CIO convention in Detroit, where Lewis expects to play a leading role.

Brainy Cop
The great, red-carpeted caucus room in the Senate office building is so much in demand for public hearings and other congressional business that outsiders cannot use it unless (1) a senator so requests and (2) a senator is present. When 350 women isolationist lobbyists stormed the capitol one day, they qualified in only one respect.

Senator Gerald Nye had arranged for them to use the chamber, but he was out of town, as usual, making a speech when they showed up.

"Where's Senator Nye—where's Senator Wheeler?" the ladies demanded excitedly when capitol policemen Ralph Dunn and Tom McNally blocked their path. Someone finally persuaded Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, to pinch-hit for Nye.

Aiken walked into the caucus room, to establish his presence, and then started to walk out as fast as his feet would carry him. "I've gone through with my part," he whispered to the policemen, "now let me out of here." But the tenacious lobbyists had other ideas. One buxom female, carrying an American flag, grabbed Aiken by the arm.

"Come back and make us a speech, Senator," she commanded. "How do you stand on the foreign policy?"

The Vermonter looked pleadingly at McNally who immediately got the drift.

"Senator, your office has just sent over word that you have a long-distance call from Vermont," said the policeman. "It's very urgent."

"I've been waiting for that call all day," blurted Aiken with feigned seriousness. "I'll have to leave right away." With that he darted out the doorway with McNally at his heels. When they were safely down the corridor Aiken joyfully threw his arms around the young policeman.

"Son, you saved my life," he exulted. "Let me know if I can ever return the favor."

Nazi Squeeze
The U. S. credit freezing order and black-list are producing real results in shutting off Nazi propaganda and subversive operations in Latin America.

Intelligence services report that Nazi embassies and legations, once well supplied with cash, now are so hard up that they are resorting to squeeze methods to obtain money from German nationals.

One scheme is to compel the nationals to send gifts of money to relatives in Germany. These funds are handled by the embassies and legations and never reach their destination. Another device is to put pressure on nationals, who were forced to sell their businesses because of the anti-axis measures, to "invest" the funds they received in a special kind of German currency known as ruckwundermarks.

The idea is that these marks will be redeemed at the rate of 250 for 40 U. S. dollars after Germany wins the war. Whether they ever will be redeemed is a gamble the German "investor" has to take; meanwhile, his savings are providing the Nazis with desperately needed currency in Latin America.

So far, Guatemala is the only Latin American country that is blocking these operations. It is the only one that has followed the U. S. lead and frozen all axis funds and property.

Merry-Go-Round
The next trans-Atlantic Clipper will carry a football packed with vitamin-mineral tablets, sent to newsmen Quentin Reynolds and the Eagle Squadron of the RAF. The tablets are for health, and the football for sport. In a critique issued to his command, the Second Army, on its operations in the recent Louisiana war games, Lt. General Ben Lear praised highly the handling of supplies for the 130,000 men, the "diligent and faithful performance" of the truck drivers, and the demolition work of the engineers. Concluding, Lear said, "It is certain that the army needs more equipment, which will be received as soon as production permits. It is equally certain that the army needs stronger discipline, harder work, and training in greater aggressiveness and initiative more even than it needs equipment."

Mrs. Caraway's Judge
The president's personal scratch-sheet of candidates for the vacancy on the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals has narrowed down to three men—all prominent Arkansas lawyers. They are:

Walter D. Riddick of Little Rock; Abe Collins of De Queen; and Joseph Barrett of Jonesboro. The fact that Arkansas, which is only one of seven states in the judicial circuit has first call on the vacancy isn't an accident, but the result of some vigorous pumping at the White House by Senator Hattie Caraway.

Mrs. Caraway told the president that there were several "very good reasons" why he should name someone from her state.

"I know you won't be influenced by politics, Mr. President," she said, "but the Democratic party owes much to Arkansas. Despite its small size, only four states contributed more to the party's treasury in the last presidential campaign."

The president grinned, but Mrs. Caraway continued earnestly. "Also, it was one of the few southern states to stay in the Democratic column in 1928." Then she put over the clincher: "No one from Arkansas has held a prominent appointive federal position since 1880, when Augustus H. Garland was attorney general, and we have never had a representative on the court of appeals in our circuit, with one exception. He was a carpet-bagger appointed after the Civil War."

The president guffawed merrily at this last shot.

"I guess we'll have to remedy that evil," he said, with a broad wink at Mrs. Caraway's companions and moral supporters, representatives Gathings, Terry and Norrell.

Tammany hall was swept out of power and Seth Low, Fusion candidate, was elected mayor of New York for the next two years by a plurality of 30,000 in yesterday's election. He carried every borough with the exception of Queens.

Mrs. E. A. Cochran, Yonkers, New York, has donated $2,000 to the Calvary Episcopal church of Sedalia to clear the church of final debt. Mrs. Cochran recently told Rev. J. S. Moody, pastor of the $30,000 church at Broadway and Ohio avenue, that if the congregation would subscribe $3,000, she would donate the remaining $2,000 of the $5,000 debt. The amount was quickly raised by the people of the church.

The Cigarmakers' union met last night and elected E. T. Behrens as delegate to the Missouri Federation of Labor, which meets in St. Joseph.

L. A. Osborne was elected president of the Sedalia Poultry Association at the organization's tenth annual meeting held Tuesday night. New vice-president of the association is W. J. Roley; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Ritchey. Members of the executive committee are Ritchey, Osborne, E. E. Coddling, E. R. Blair and L. H. Archias.

Our Congressman Says—

It is night in Boom Town. In the last few months over 186,931 boys and girls, men and women, have come to boom town to share in the money, help in the defense program. In this booming city, the nerve center of that group of nations at war, rackets and sin have come to town too. Crime flourishes in big town and it is not safe for ladies to venture out alone at night. Just the other day a man was convicted of the rape and murder of eight Washington women. But, other forces are at work in boom town too. Forces working for good. There are 277 churches in Washington, representing all denominations. I had the pleasure of teaching a Sunday school class last Sunday and it made me homesick for my own men's class which I have taught for many years at Springfield. But as I look out of the windows of my office this night, my mind cannot seem to get away from the fact that if you could see this beehive of activity you would share with me a solemn pride in this great giant of a nation, shaking sleep away with a mighty shrug, carrying on through night the work of government. At the department of agriculture the night shift has just gone to work on farm and food problems created by defense. Nearby, in the Commerce building lights blaze in the offices of the Maritime Commission which no doubt is wrestling this night with some tough shipping problem. At the Social Security building the army quartermaster in charge of construction maintains a beehive of activity. An old warehouse containing the procurement division of the treasury and the Federal Works Agency, drones with the hum of busy office machines. There are lights too on Capitol hill. Offices of the senators and congressmen reflect through lighted windows the extra work put upon them by problems of the day. And there is the flag flying over the Capitol before the blaze of the lighted dome. It has flown there since the last war when, for patriotic reasons, it was felt there should be one building in the United States over which the flag should never cease to fly. The capitol was selected since it was outside military regulations which demand the furling of the flag at sunset. That's it. That explains why the lights burn this night in boom town. We want to keep that flag flying 24 hours per day and that dome lighted, never subject to black-out.

There is much social life in the capital these days. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have been to town, you know, and have finally had lunch at the White House. They have been visiting Wally's folks over in Baltimore (suburb of Washington) where she has been showing off her catch to envious school day chums. Royalty is about as common around here as English sailors. It seems as if most of the ruling heads of the great democratic freedom loving monarchies got safely away with the crown jewels and are living here in the east where they are much in demand to grace afternoon teas. Archduke Otto, claimant of the nonexistent throne of Austria, has made himself so thoroughly at home that he has been arrested on numerous occasions for speeding along country roads and forcing the simple peasants of Massachusetts to climb trees in order to avoid his high-powered motor.

Speaking of motorists, state treasuries collected $1,327,277,000 from highway users in 1940. The federal government is going to get into this pie next year in a bigger way with the five dollar "use tax" on autos and 7 per cent sales tax. The Internal revenue department hasn't yet decided how to collect the new "use tax."

C. Brumidi, "artist, citizen of the United States," is the signature on the famous painting of Lord Cornwallis and George Washington which hangs in the house of representatives. I was curious about this signature and inquired of Tyler Page, former clerk of the house, a Washington institution, and author of the American's creed (a copy of which I will send you on request) the reason why the famous Italian painter and sculptor added the words, "Artist, Citizen of the United States," after his name. Mr. Page, who knows all the folk lore and the human side of the nation's capitol, told me this story. It seems that C. Brumidi, an Italian political refugee, had painted a number of fine murals for the capitol and other artists seeking work insisted contracts should be given to Americans. One, Greenough, was particularly insistent and it was decided to give him a contract for a pedestrian statue of Washington. There were a number of equestrian statues of the first president but no pedestrian. The congress appropriated $5,000 and Greenough was given a job about the year 1850. Some months later the statue arrived. It was carefully boxed and difficult to handle. It was found too wide for great bronze doors and they, as well as considerable masonry, had to be removed to get the crate into the capitol. When it was unboxed the congress was amazed to find that the artist who had been studying in Rome was influenced by that environment to such an extent that instead of carrying out plans for a pedestrian statue he had shown the Father of our Country in a sitting position with bare shoulders about which was draped the toga of a senator of ancient Rome. The statue was too heavy for safety of the floor and support the $5,000 piece of marble. There was much criticism of the work by American citizens who did not recognize their distinguished countryman so the statue was moved to a place in front of the capitol where it stood for several years. It now sits in the National Museum. After this experience Brumidi was more popular than ever. By this time he had become a naturalized citizen and to meet criticism offered because of his race, he afterwards signed his work, "C. Brumidi, Artist, Citizen of the United States."

Labor. The syndicated article of Westbrook Pegler, carried in most all large newspapers of the nation October 25th, and devoted to my attempts in congress to get something done toward solving the critical labor crisis in defense industries, too long neglected, has brought me much approval. The Gallup Poll on October 31st reported 87 per cent of the people favor a law requiring annual public reports of union receipts and expenditures which would thus hamper racketeer leadership. I introduced a bill last April, H. R. 4392, calling for this. So far I have been unable to get it out of the administration controlled committee so congress could vote on this measure wanted by the people, feared by some politicians and crooks.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THE society columns of daily papers make note of the fact that the fall social season is in full swing. And the shopping columns of the same papers inform the housewife that the fall's presentation of foods are likewise in full bloom. New arrivals are reported daily—the Concord grape, the pumpkin, yams, and other social lights that mean fall is really here.

Still with us, however, are many stars of the summer season—carrots, beets, string-beans, celery, lima beans. Even peas linger on, loathe to make their exit. The budget-minded will find that these are all offered at reasonable prices.

The apples and pears that are fall's own darlings are more numerous than ever. Italian plums, seedless grapes, oranges, even tarty cantaloupes. Who said meal-planning is difficult?

Good news is that meat prices have dropped slightly this week. Pork is somewhat lower, as are beef ribs and chops. In the poultry stalls, broilers, fryers and ducklings are special buys.

Eggs and cheese, however, march onward in price. Butter stands still in the price scale this week.

Based on the best buys of the week, Marion Rouse Budd, of the A & P Kitchen, has prepared the following menus at different price levels for your next Sunday dinner:

- Low Cost Dinner
Spareribs with Apple Stuffing
Glazed Sweet Potatoes
Fried Red Cabbage
Butterscotch Pudding
Tea or Coffee
- Medium Cost Dinner
Veal Birds
Hashed Browned Potatoes
Creamed Carrots
Watercress and Cucumber Salad
Apple Brown Betty
Tea or Coffee
- Very Special Dinner
Baked Ham
Maple Sweet Potatoes
Green Lima Beans
Endive, Celery and Stuffed Olive
Salad
Pumpkin Pie
Tea or Coffee

Nut Sugar Cookies

(About 3 dozen)

One cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 1 egg, 3 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon milk, ¾ cup chopped nuts.

Cream butter, sugar, and yolk of egg together until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and milk.

Mix well. Chill and roll out on thin sheet. Cut in oblong strips, brush with unbeaten egg white. Sprinkle thickly with chopped nuts. Bake in slow oven (300° F) about 10 to 12 minutes.

Chips That Keep

A non-perishable potato chip has been produced by the government's Bureau of Dairy Industry. Containing no fat, it is resistant to decay. The chip is made by combining concentrated skim milk with boiled potatoes, whipping them, and then extruding through corrugated openings in the form of a ribbon, and drying. The potato chip will keep indefinitely.

Small cubes of pre-cooked squash dropped into a fritter batter and cooked in deep fat at 375°F. make an excellent accompaniment for the Thanksgiving turkey. They are equally appealing with the a la king version of holiday left-overs.

New Date Pudding

An interesting variation of date pudding is called "marbled date pudding." To Make, combine an equal amount of vanilla batter and chocolate batter to which chopped dates have been added.

Fruits With Meat

Halved fruit—pears, apricots or peaches—may be spiced with a few cloves, sprinkled with sugar and placed under the broiler with the steaks, ham or chops with which they may be served.

Delightful different muffins are easily made by substituting left-over fruit juice for the liquid in the recipe. Apricot juice and unsweetened pineapple juice are especially flavorful contributors to good eating.

Chicory Uses

The leaves of the chicory plant are used for salad, and are sometimes called curly endive. It is the root of the plant which is cut into slices, dried and roasted as coffee.

Skinning Carrots

To save a lot of time and trouble in removing the skins of carrots, drop the vegetable in boiling water for a few minutes.

Weeds and insects cause an annual loss of $6,500,000 in the United States.

FOR MARVELOUS DRIP COFFEE

DRIP GRIND

Butter-Nut Coffee

Maple sirup added to apple-sauce is a tempting addition to griddlecakes especially corn-meal ones.

Ideal dessert to polish off Thanksgiving dinner—grape custard.

Stanford May Face Navy In Rose Bowl

Missouri Mentioned As New Year's Sugar Bowl Possibility

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Stanford against Navy in the Rose Bowl; Fordham against Texas in the Sugar Bowl; Duke against Texas A. and M. in the Cotton Bowl, and Syracuse against Alabama in the Orange Bowl — there is a strictly tentative but possible lineup of the post-season football games to be played next New Year's day.

Drafting such a lineup is a hazardous proposition this far in advance of the regular season's close. But there is sufficient evidence on hand to show these pairings are more than wishful thinking.

Navy Men To Duty

Stanford, a good bet though by no means a cinch to return to the Rose Bowl, is reported to favor Navy as its top choice for an eastern opponent. In the southern part of California—where the Rose Bowl is located—there is strong sentiment backing the Middles. However, the chief problem here would be special dispensation from Naval academy authorities. Under the academy's national emergency set-up the current seniors will be graduated Dec. 19 and promptly be assigned to active duty.

If Navy is not available, Texas probably would be next in line, and considerable pressure already is being brought to bear in favor of the Longhorns, currently the country's No. 1 team. Duke did not impress coast observers in its 1939 Rose Bowl loss to Southern California, while Fordham, the east's top team, gets hardly any mention.

Missouri Mentioned

But the Rams figure very prominently in Sugar Bowl and Cotton Bowl discussion, especially since, with only Pittsburgh, St. Mary's and New York U. still to play, they stand an extra-fine chance of finishing unbeaten and untied.

Outside of the teams already named, Alabama, Mississippi, Mississippi State and Missouri have been mentioned as Sugar Bowl possibilities, with unbeaten and untied Duquesne given only an outside chance. The same three southern teams, together with Vanderbilt and Miami, and Duquesne from the east rate in the Orange Bowl running.

The Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowl sponsors say that so far they have no definite contacts. Stanford will make no commitment until it is sure of going into the Rose Bowl, in which the host team controls choice of the visiting eleven.

Girlie Girlie Gridiron Show

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Indiana university campus, used to publicity pranks of Coach Bo McMillin, will be treated tomorrow to another outlandish football phenomenon featuring Bo's daughter — a girlie girlie show of gridiron.

I. U. chapters of Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities will play their first game of touch football.

Touch football is an affair of nine players to a side supposed not to be as rough as the real thing.

To make sure it's not so rough, promoters have decreed in a custom tailored, special-for-Thursday-only rule book that no player may go into action before she has cut or taped her fingernails—manicure and polish notwithstanding.

Hair pulling will be penalized, primping will be allowed only between plays, and the referee will carry the only mirror.

Starting lineups will be characterized by brains and beauty and absolute lack of football experience.

For Kappa Theta Alpha, there'll be Elaine Ax, dancer and musician, and Betty Bohannon, campus actress; for Kappa Kappa Gamma, Prom Queen Dede Lung, Yearbook Beauty Queen Sonya Schlee and McMillin's daughter, Bo Peep.

Sideline sitters at front-yard scrimmage sessions of the pulchritudinous pigskinners reported today:

In the middle of a practice game, the sisters go into huddle and ask one another, "What's the score?" and "Who's ahead?"

Some of them still think a back

Marquette Marksman

Jimmy Richardson, whose remarkable passing record for Marquette—72 per cent completions without one being intercepted in 47 attempts, is attracting the attention of many a football expert. No one, in college or professional football, approaches the passing mark of the tailback, which he compiled against Grade A competition.

Consider Water-Wings In Big Six Football Clashes

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—They are thinking seriously of making water-wings standard football equipment in the Big Six, selecting backs on ability as swimmers instead of passers and reserving a position on all-conference teams for a towel boy.

The towel boy has to keep the pigskin wiped clean. Under the new rule which allows the use of three footballs in case of a wet field, a change being made after each down, these guys are the hardest workers out there this season.

The nation's best testing ground for this new regulation has been the Big Six. Only two week ends have been blessed with sun. The click of the turnstile is dim and it's difficult to get enough customers to even pay the mounting laundry bills.

Only two teams, Missouri and Oklahoma, have played on entirely dry fields. They acted like a duck out of water and lost. Oklahoma had solid footing against Texas at Dallas and Missouri kicked up dust instead of mud against Ohio State at Columbus.

Rain has either ceased the night before a game or continued to fall in sheets during it. It's small wonder that upsets have come. Santa Clara fumbled three times on a water-logged Oklahoma gridiron and the Sooners capitalized on them. Missouri beat Nebraska on a heavy turf, which did not have a chance to dry as the sun blossomed in time to draw the season's best crowd, 29,000. And Kansas State collapsed the Huskers on a field that looked like chocolate frosting.

is what you show off with an evening gown and a line is something a man hands you. Qualified observers predicted that when Greek met Greek on gridiron the proceedings would be Greek to even the best qualified observers.

Play-off To Decide Cue Championship

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A play-off will be necessary to decide the 1941 world's pocket billiards championship despite the fact that four more matches still remain in the $10,000 round-robin cue classic.

As a result of play yesterday, leadership was again thrown into a five way tie between defending champion Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia; Andrew Ponzi, New York; Jimmy Caras, Wilmington, Del.; Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland, and Irving Crane, Livonia, N. Y., all former title holders.

Graceland Defeats Wentworth 26 to 0

LEXINGTON, Mo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Graceland College of Lamoni, Iowa, defeated Wentworth military academy 26 to 0 last night to retain its lead in the interstate football conference.

The Iowans proved good mud-diggers, scoring the first touchdown soon after a heavy rain started in the second quarter. That scoring march was followed by another in the third and two more in the fourth period.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(The Special News Service) — That wasn't a Banshee you heard howling during the last couple of days, only football coaches who figured the officials hadn't done right by their teams.

... First, Florida's Tom Lieb complained about a timer who stopped the clock when he shouldn't. Then Northwestern's Lynn Waldorf-claimed the Minnesota boys didn't stop themselves for the required second on that touchdown play. And Princeton's Tad Weiman said Franny Lee of Harvard had hit the ground two yards away from the touchdown that beat the Tigers and shouldn't have been called safe on his slide. When Jimmy Crowley told the N. Y. football writers that his unbeaten Rams were "worried about every game we have left," Mal Stevens thought of his battered N. Y. U. boys and muttered "So are we."

Long Hits Wanted

Hearing the other day about the mysterious clippings regarding one Lou Long discovered in Lou Gehrig's scrapbook, Jim Finnerty of Bloomfield, N. J., recalled how Gehrig (Long for college reasons) played a game there once. Lou worked in the outfield and didn't get a hit. The manager paid him three bucks for his work, then said the club couldn't use him again because they needed a slugging outfielder.

Add kicking feats: Owen Price of Texas Mines averaged 55 yards on five punts against Hardin-Simmons and booted one 83 yards. ... One reason for the Army team's improvement is that Carl Hinkle, who was All-American center at Vanderbilt a few years ago, is working with the scrubs. So is Frank Waddell, who was one of the team's most promising backs until somebody discovered he had played 12 minutes for Central college of Missouri. ... Henry Hogan, coach at Berkshire school (Mass.) signed a one-year contract 21 years ago. He's still waiting for it to expire. ... Notre Dame fans give Frank Leahy credit for the year's best defensive job when he held the Irish to 16 points against Carnegie Tech.

Charge Racket In Basketball

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Nov. 5.—(AP)—And basketball, too, is becoming a racket!

The words boomed from Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas cage coach. He's followed the sport now for 40 years.

The occasion was a Y. M. C. A. better basketball clinic, a golden jubilee celebration for the game conceived by Mr. James A. Naismith in Springfield, Mass., the winter of 1891.

"Today, and in increasing proportions, basketball is being played for the dough involved," Allen stormed. "Young men are going to colleges and universities where they can get the most."

"Like football, it's becoming a closed corporation. Select high school prospects are invited in and yet hundreds of boys, eager to play the game, are never invited out."

"Many athletes never graduate after they finish three years of competition. They receive a salary and glory in substitute for a diploma."

His harsh indictment didn't apply, the noted coach assured, to most high schools or to some few universities and colleges, for instance. He pointed to five of his University of Kansas cagers, on hand to demonstrate fundamentals of the game.

"At Kansas University we have championship basketball teams in which the kids get a little more out of actual participation than newspaper publicity. These players are on their way toward a university degree and are obtaining a favorable introduction into business and society through their love of the game."

MIAA Championship At Stake Saturday

A championship will be at stake when the Mules meet the Springfield Bears Saturday afternoon, on the Warrensburg field. The Mules remain the only undefeated team in the M.I.A.A. conference, having won one and tied two games while the Bears have won two and lost one.

The Mules have not been scored on since September 26. Springfield has lost two games in a row. The winner of the game Saturday will clinch a tie for first place.

Saturday is Homecoming day at the Central Missouri Teachers' college at Warrensburg where activities will start at one o'clock when seventeen bands from high schools of the district will lead the Homecoming Queen's chariot in a parade from the campus to the stadium. There the queen will be crowned at 2:15 before the game starts at 2:30 p. m. At the alumni dinner at 6:30 p. m., four outstanding graduates will be honored. The day's festivities close with a homecoming dance, in the new Morrow gymnasium.

... when you try Phillips 66 Poly Gas for Cold Weather STARTING!

Let's get acquainted! Try a tankful of today's high test Phillips 66 Poly Gas, and see if that isn't the beginning of a long and useful friendship.

The colder the day on which you first try it, the more convincing will be the evidence that you have found a great cold-weather gasoline.

Your engine will start... every time... with surprising speed. It will warm up faster, with less protest and pop-back. And you'll quickly feel the improvement in power, pick-up, and running.

Yes sir, it's not only a pleasure to drive with this greater gasoline; it's a pleasure to pay for it, because its extra high test does not cost a penny extra!

It gives you volatility (high test quality) rarely equalled or exceeded even by premium price motor fuels. Scientific tests prove that no other gasoline is so accurately matched all year 'round to the monthly changes in your weather.

Sound convincing? Well, the sound of your motor after you get your first trial tankful is doubly so. Forget starting trouble... just remember to stop for gas at the Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Sportsmen Making Ready For The Quail

Highlights In The Wildlife Code On Season For Birds

Full Equipment For Hunters In Sedalia's Stores

Sedalia hunters are busy oiling up guns in preparation for the opening of the quail season in Missouri next Monday, November 10, but the Missouri State Conservation Commission law prohibiting hunting of resident game from November 1 to 9, prevents temptation from becoming too great until Monday rolls around. Unless there are duck hunters in the vicinity, there should be no shooting heard in Pettis county fields until that time.

This year promises to be one of the best for the hunter, because Missouri has a plentiful game supply. Quail are in abundance.

For weeks training of bird dogs has been underway and when the bird season opens November 10, some of the finest dog flesh in the midwest will take to the field.

Wildlife Code of Missouri
"Bobwhite quail may be taken only by gun, or by gun and dog, between sunrise and sunset, during the open season from November 10 to December 31," states the wildlife and forestry code of Missouri. Not more than ten quail may be taken in any one day or had in possession on November 10, the opening day of the season. Not more than fifteen quail may be had in possession on any other day during the season.

Each hunter must carry his own game while hunting, in order that the possession may be ascertained. All game must be stored in private refrigerators; none can be kept in commercial lockers.

The "gun" referred to in the law governing the shooting of quail is defined as a shotgun only, fired from the shoulder. Automatic or pump guns must be plugged ged to not carry over three shells.

For any hunters who might feel like going primitive, the code book, which every hunter should own, makes possible the shooting of wildlife with a bow and arrows.

The Sedalia hunters will be able to get supplies now or at the last minute from local stores which are featuring hunting equipment in conjunction with the opening of the quail season.

When the fellows join you on that hunting expedition Monday morning, show 'em the new equipment that you bought over the weekend—at bargain prices.

Serial Story . . .

For the Love Of Pete!

. . . by Burton Benjamin

Copyright 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER I

SIXTY THOUSAND people stood up and roared approval as State's blue-jersied squad came prancing out of the ramp onto the field. It was California's first glimpse of the most publicized football team in the country, a team that had flown almost 3000 miles to open its season on the coast.

Big, supple, confident, they jogged up and down the field—kicking, passing, loosening up. A buzz of anticipation filled the stands. The tall blond girl who sat in a 50-yard line seat behind State's bench was aware that one name seemed to be on everyone's lips.

"Which one's Laird?"
"Watch him throw that ball!"
"Look at that stride!"
"That's Laird—number 52."
The tall blond girl sat on the edge of her seat and clenched her hands. Her eyes never left that big "52" in the center of the field. They were lovely eyes—a deep blue, honest, intelligent. Her name was Anne Humphreys.

It seemed incongruous to Anne Humphreys to sit there and hear people idol-worship someone she knew as intimately as Pete Laird. They had met three years ago at a tea-dance when they were both freshmen at State. George Landers, Laird's closest friend, had introduced them. She remembered how this tall, bashful boy from a West Virginia mining town had blushed and struggled for words.

They had fallen in love even before she watched him develop into one of the nation's leading football stars. With fame had come poise and confidence and a knack for shaking off admirers as shruggingly as if they were would-be football tacklers.

George Landers, square-jawed and blunt, had moved along, too. His stocky, compact frame made him a blocking marvel. Few people realized his value, although State's squad thanked him the only way it could. By electing him captain.

But it was Pete Laird who carried the ball and Pete Laird who got the headlines. Anne bit her lip when she realized what this season meant to them. They wanted to marry right after graduation, but it all depended on the eight games ahead. They had no money, and their families couldn't help.

Then there was medical school for Pete—that took money, too. And there was only one place to get that money, to cash in on this football season. Success meant endorsements, publicity, plenty of lucrative propositions. It would have to be this year or never, for Anne knew well there was nothing so dead as last year's football heroes.

HER thoughts were broken by the thud of a bass drum. The crowd rose again and shouted. California had kicked off, and the game was underway.

For six or seven minutes Anne's glance shifted up and down the gridiron as State and California felt each other out. Suddenly State's juggernaut struck, and Anne was on her feet screaming.

With the ball on its 40-yard line, State pulled a reverse with Pete Laird following four-man interference around right end. Anne saw the devastating State blocking mow down California defenders, saw Landers chop down the last man and Laird bolt into the open for a touchdown. She felt like running down on the field and throwing her arms around him.

Before the half had ended, Anne was almost numb. Late in Pete had begged Anne earlier that day to come down to the corner of the stands by State's ramp just before the second half started.

"Here, darling," she called as he jogged out slowly, looking for her, George just behind him. Pete reached for her hand, squeezing it hard, the first quarter, Pete Laird, with the accuracy of a baseball pitcher, whipped a 30-yard touchdown pass to Landers in the end zone. Five minutes later he plowed through a wide gap in California's line, picked up his coterie of blockers and sped 75 yards unmolested.

Come down to the corner of the stands by the ramp just before the second half. Pete had begged Anne earlier that day, so while California's band formed letters on the field and California's cheer leaders leaped through their antics, she made her way through a restless crowd to a spot where she could call to Pete as the team returned to the field.

He jogged up the ramp slowly, looking for her, George just behind him. "Here, darling," she called, and Pete reached for her hand, squeezed it hard.

Anne began pinching herself in the second half. California tried a quick kick, Laird picked up the loose ball on his 10-yard line and was off again. He dodged the diving California end, shook off one tackler, then another, stiff-armed a third. Up the middle of the field he stormed, bowling right over the last man who had a shot at him. Ninety yards, most of it covered single-handed!

California rooters sat stunned. This wasn't a football team—it was a Panzer division, a Molotov cocktail and a Spitfire rolled into one! But State wasn't through. California, desperate, began passing, and State intercepted. Two whacks at the line picked up three yards, and then they gave the ball to Laird. He went 23 yards for his fourth touchdown—and not a hand laid on him!

Anne started toward the exit as Dinty Dugan, State coach, poured in his subs. She hailed a cab and ordered the driver to take her to a downtown hotel where the team was quartered. She had to catch an evening train east, and her meeting with Pete would be brief. The driver flicked on his radio and she heard the final score—State 34, California 0.

In the locker room, Pete Laird sloshed under a shower and dodged playful pokes Landers directed his way.

"Same old stuff," Landers belted.

"Yep," chorried Laird, "you knock 'em, I run over 'em." They winked and laughed. Seven years together—high school and college—and they weren't stopping. Laird and Landers yet. They were the Gallagher and Shean, Laurel and Hardy, and Amos 'n' Andy of football. The perfect team.

Newspaper men were waiting for Laird when he stepped out of the shower. The kid was good copy. He stood there dripping wet—a shock of brown, curly hair, dark eyes and a strong, fine face—answering their questions.

Half an hour passed before Dinty Dugan—only his wife and the college president called him Lawrence—cleared the room. The players were all dressed except Laird. Landers shouted:

"Hey, Grange—step on it. Alumni are throwing a big feed at the hotel." Laird nodded and waved.

A messenger boy walked up to him. "Ain't you Pete Laird?" he gawked.

"That's right, son. What'll you have?"

"Some doll outside asked me to give you this note," replied the messenger.

Dear Mr. Laird:

Congratulations. You were superb. As one of your great admirers I'd like to tell you so in person. I'm sitting in a black limousine at Gate D. Please stop by.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If a girl has known a young man for a long time, but never dated him, would it be all right for her to write him a letter at an Army camp?
2. Is it bad manners for a man who has a guest to glance over his bill at a restaurant table before paying it?
3. When a husband and wife go into a restaurant, does he or she tell the headwaiter their preference in tables?
4. Is it all right for a man to take out a pocket comb in public and run it through his hair?
5. Should guests stopping at a hotel chatter as they walk down the hall if they return to their rooms late at night?

What would you do if—
You sit down in the public room of a hotel, the floor of which is handsomely carpeted and start to smoke a cigarette, only to find that there is no ashtray by your chair—
(a) Move to another chair where there is an ashtray handy?
(b) Ask a bellhop to bring you an ashtray?

(c) Use the floor for an ashtray?
Answers
1. Certainly.
2. No.
3. He does.
4. No.
5. No. They should try not to disturb any guests who might be sleeping.
Best "What Would You Do?" solution—either (a) or (b).

Victor Emmanuel Called "Royal Guest" of Duce

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL of Italy, formally accorded the title of emperor in 1936 after the Black Shirt legions strode through Ethiopia, is one of the last kings on the European chessboard. He will be 72 years old Nov. 11.

He was honored philatelically in 1938 by Italian East Africa, which included Ethiopia and the former colonies of Italian Eritrea and Somaliland. This area has been conquered by Britain.

The king has been called the "royal guest" of Mussolini, since most of the world knows that Il Duce tolerates the pint-sized septuagenarian solely because the personal popularity of the unprepossessing monarch is greater than that of the Black Shirt leader. Victor Emmanuel rarely appears

Miss Lillian Stupp, St. Louis, state president of the American Association of University Women, was the guest of honor and speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Sedalia branch, Monday evening at Hotel Bothwell. Miss Stupp is also a member of Governor Donnell's newly established civilian council of defense.

Preceding the dinner a board meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. M. Stafford, Jr., 419 Dal-Whi-Mo Court. The officers and chairmen were present: Miss Estelle Jenkins, president; Mrs. D. S. Lamm, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Faxon, treasurer; Miss Joyce Lynn, secretary; Mrs. William R. Courtney, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, Miss Mary Vance, Miss Geraldine Teufel, Miss Mary L. Johnson, Miss Polly Ann Workman and Miss Ida Cruzan.

The special music, a trio composed of Mrs. John M. Rodeman, Mrs. Raymond Peterson and Abe Rosenthal, was especially enjoyed. They played Saraste's "Novarro" and "Shepherd Boy" by Wilson. Mrs. Rosenthal was program chairman.

In her address, Miss Stupp gave some of the historical background of early collegiate alumnae, and said that today the Association of University Women now has 72,000 members of 909 branches in the United States and island possessions. Through all these years, the fundamental purpose has remained the same—practical education for all, and higher standards for higher education.

The entire program, through the six study fields, education, the arts, fellowship, international relations, social studies, and legislation, should be pertinent to the community where the organization is active, she said.

In addition to the board, these members attended the dinner: Mrs. H. A. Berlin, Miss Mary Sue Campbell, Mrs. J. B. Kyd, Mrs. Leon Archias, Jr., Miss Maudalide Nelson and Mrs. Stafford.

During her visit here Miss Stupp was a guest of Mrs. Archias at her home, 508 South ark avenue.

An enjoyable surprise party was given Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fackler, near Smithton, in honor of their son, Julius Fackler, who leaves November 5 to report for selective service at Jefferson Barracks.

Dancing and games were enjoyed and refreshments of sandwiches, coffee and punch were served.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Lacy and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. John Fackler, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Hopkins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beck, Mr. and Mrs. George Fackler and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott, of Sedalia, Misses Hazel and Margaret Maples, of Clifton City, Pauline Roark and Claire Erickson, of Beaman, Elizabeth Fackler; Messrs. Roy Maples, George Stamberger, Theodore Phillips, John Erickson, Clarence Hudson, Carl and Julius Fackler.

Miss Mary Ross Hoffman and Miss Lillian Hurley are entertaining a number of guests at the Country club Thursday night, honoring two brides-to-be, Miss Vivian Valkenburg and Miss Helen Sullivan.

Miss Valkenburg will be complimented at a breakfast Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at Hotel Bothwell, by Miss Helen Rose Shaffer and Miss Mildred Coffman.

Mrs. J. C. Connor, Miss Mayme Shipley and Miss Christine Jones, are entertaining, at a kitchen shower, at their home, 414 East Seventh street, for Miss Helen Sullivan, who will marry Henry Wiederhold, of St. Paul, Minn., November 22.

Mrs. John H. Rodeman is entertaining at her home, 318-A West Fifth street, tonight with a personal shower, for Miss Vivian Valkenburg who will marry Mr. Le Drue Cessna, of Long Beach, Calif., November 25.

The Priscilla club will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Miss May Highleyman, of 623 East Thirteenth street.

Church Events

The Women's Guild of the Evangelical and Reformed church will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. An election of officers will be held and a thank offering taken.

The Self circle of the Epworth Methodist church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Salmons, 602 West Sixteenth street. Mrs. Clyde Neighbors will be assisting hostess.

The women's missionary society of the Broadway Presbyterian church will meet at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the social service building. The topic will be "Southern Mountains."

The ladies said society of the St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Sunday school rooms. Mrs. L. H. Heuermann and Mrs. Walter Knehan will be hostesses.

Homemakers Have Program

The Flat Creek Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Isaac Snow last week, with a covered dish luncheon served at noon. There were twenty-seven members present, and other there were, Mrs. Cora Bishop, Omaha, Neb., guest of Mrs. James Burnett, Mrs. Laverne Riecke Bellis and Mrs. Bellis, of Santa Ana, Calif., the former a niece of Mrs. Snow, Mrs. George Coffman, Mrs. Rogers Mosby, Miss Lilly Jahn, Harold Wadleigh.

In the afternoon the president, Mrs. E. R. Elliott opened the program by having all sing the club song, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." Mrs. Wynona Elliott gave the history of the little Brown church, also told of the author of composer of the song. Mrs. E. W. Hoard gave a report on Miss Stella Mills' talk at Columbia on the subject "Making Good on the Job." Mrs. Maud Arnold and Mrs. Wilhoit talked of desserts and supper dishes, and how to make them with milk and eggs. Mrs. Earl Holder became a permanent member of the club.

Officers elected for 1942 are: President, Mrs. James Phillips; vice-president, Mrs. E. W. Hoard, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Wadleigh; reporter, Mrs. Vest Elliott; game leader, Mrs. Asa Robertson; child welfare chairman, Mrs. Asa Elliott; parliamentarian, Mrs. R. O. Lewis; reading chairman, Mrs. E. R. Wilhoit; 4-H club sponsor, Mrs. C. G. Ficken; leaders of 4-H club project, Mrs. M. M. Hammond and Mrs. Earl Holder; song leader, Mrs. Clarence Wadleigh.

Mrs. M. M. Hammond will be hostess November 25 at her country home.

Wiener Roast For Maplewood PTA

Maplewood P. T. A. members and their families met at the school house Friday night for a wiener roast and Halloween party.

IT'S NOT JUST LUCK!

Close call on a close haul... a spectacular action shot by Morris Rosenfeld. Don't credit luck alone—actually, it took a combination of skill, experience, and timing.

And that's what it takes to make Hiram Walker's DeLuxe a great bourbon.

It's not just the four long years of aging—not just the mouth-watering aroma—not just the glorious, full-bodied flavor—but a perfect combination of all these things that gives Hiram Walker's DeLuxe its "prize" bourbon taste. Try Hiram Walker's DeLuxe today!

Straight Bourbon Whiskey. 90 proof. This whiskey is 4 years old. Hiram Walker & Sons Inc., Peoria, Ill.

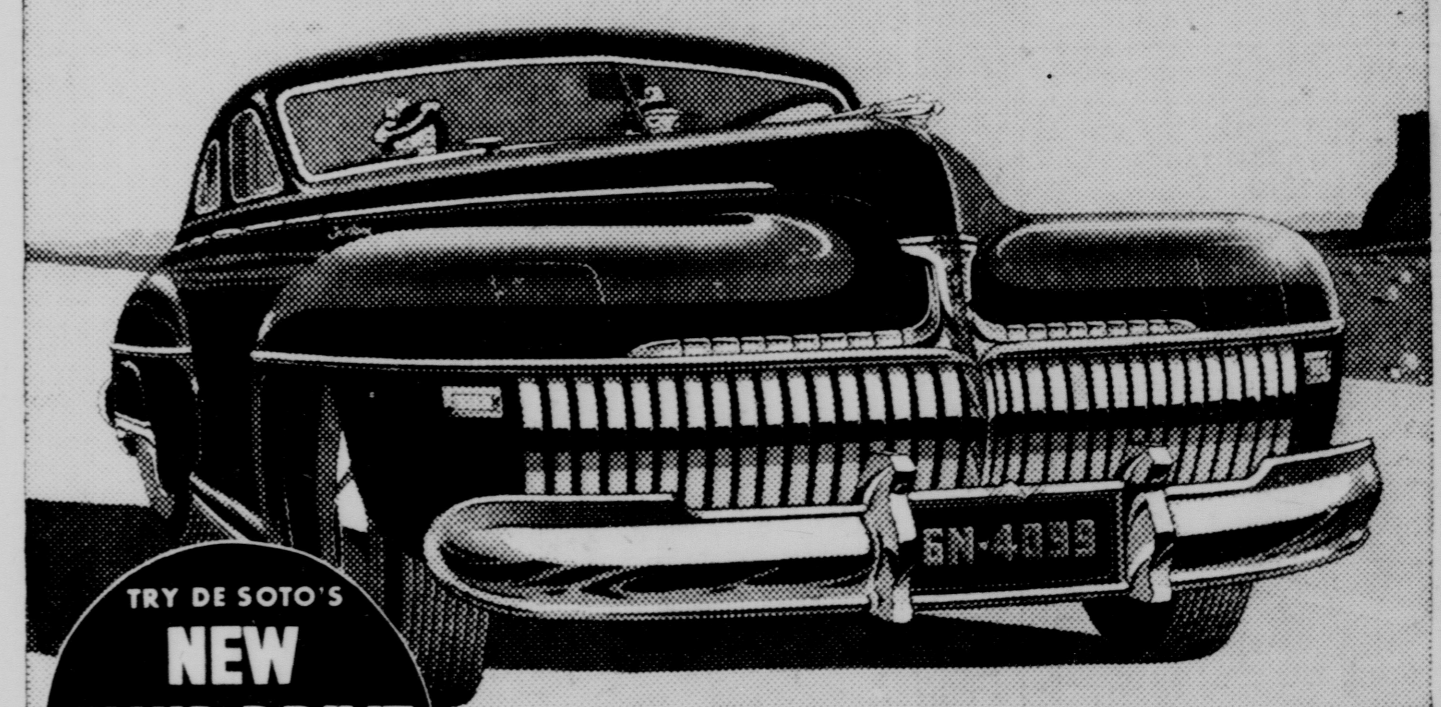

All that its name implies

Walker's DE LUXE Straight Bourbon Whiskey
